Our famous seaweed Gin
Aged 1 year in Whisky casks

Product of Canada
750*ml* & 700*ml*

Each month, a tiny part of our St. Laurent Gin production is transferred to ex-whisky casks. After resting for more than a year in oak barrels, our famous Gin infused with laminaria seaweed becomes St. Laurent Gin Vieux.

The distinctive aromas of St. Laurent Gin are rediscovered in a whole new light: herbaceous and floral notes interspersed with pine aromas reminiscent of Quebec's boreal forest. Time then leave its mark: grain and woody notes brought by the ex-whisky barrel-ageing enrich the aromatic complexity of the liquid. The finish stays true to St. Laurent Gin's signature: a slight marine saltiness thanks to the maceration of laminaria seaweed harvested in the St. Lawrence River.

Juniper • Coriander • Angelica root • Cassia bark
Licorice • Lemon • Bitter orange • Cubeb berry
Grain of paradise • Laminaria seaweed (kombu)

Tasting notes

A mellow and aromatic approach: the juniper is gently unveiled without harshness, then gives way to grassy notes, pepper and candied citrus. A long woody finish, slightly saline, a signature of the laminaria seaweed infusion.
